2018 Latin America Week
February 09 - 16

The Centre for Contemporary Latin American Studies aims to foster activities dedicated to: cultural exchange and understanding of the Latin America region, through increasing international experiences and scholarship as well as through promoting and supporting research, facilitating knowledge exchange and enterprise; and hosting key events such as Latin America Week. This year’s edition offers a range of events and activities showcasing some of our research collaboration with the region as well as promoting local and regional cultures. These events are organised in collaboration with the Edinburgh University Latin American societies.
